

*Prompt 1:

Create a C++ program which generates excuses for student for missing homework or assignments Each time the program runs it should give different output and run the program till the user presses X and store 15 - 20 excuses in a String Vector and Take the user name as input

*Prompt 2:

Fix logical bugs in this C++ program including repeated random outputs, weak seeding, and improper input handling